OWL MOON

It was late one winter night,
long past my bed time,
when Pa and I went owling.

There was no wind.

The trees stood still as giant statues.

And the moon was so bright

the sky seemed to shine.

Somewhere behind us

a train whistle blew,

Long and low,

like a sad, sad song.

I could here it

Through the woolen cap

Pa had pulled down

over my ears.

A farm dog answered the train,

and then a second dog joined in.

They sang out,

for a real long time,

Trains and dogs.

And when the voices

faded away

It was as quiet as a dream.

We walked on toward the woods,

Pa and I.

Our feet crunched

Over the crisp snow

And little gray footprints followed us.

Pa made a long shadow,

But mine was short and round.

I had to run after him

every now and then to keep up.

And my short, round shadow bumped after me.

But I never called out.

If you go owling

You have to be quiet,

That's what Pa always says.

I had been waiting

To go owling with Pa

For a long, long time.

We reached the line

Of pine trees,

Black and pointy

against the sky,

And Pa put up his hand.

I stopped right where I was and waited.

He looked up,

Searching the stars,

As if reading a map up there.

The moon made his face

into a silver mask,

Then he called:

"Whoo,Whoo, who,who, who,
whoooooo,"

The sound of a Great Horned Owl.

"Whoo, whoo, who,who,who,whoooooo."

Again he called out.

And then again.

After each call

He was silent

And for a moment we both listened.

But there was no answer.

Pa shrugged

And I shrugged.

I was not disappointed.

My brothers all said

Sometimes there's an owl

And sometimes there isn't.

We walked on.

I could feel the cold,

As if someone's icy hand

Was palm-down on my back.

And my nose

And the tops of my cheeks

Felt cold and hot

At the same time.

But I never said a word.

If you go owling

You have to be quiet

and make your own heat.

We went into the woods.

The shadows

where the blackest things

I had ever seen.

They stained the white snow.
 My mouth felt furry,
 For the scarf over it
 Was wet and warm.
 I didn't ask
 What kinds of things
 Hide behind black trees
 In the middle of the night.
 For when you go owling
 You have to be brave.

Then we came to a clearing
 In the middle of the woods.
 The moon was high above us.
 It seemed to fit Exactly
 Over the center of the clearing
 And the snow below it
 Was whiter than the milk
 In a cereal bowl.

I sighed
 and Pa held up his hand at the sound.
 I put the mittens over the scarf over my mouth
 and listened hard.

And then Pa called:
 "Whoo, Whoo, who, who,
 whooooooo."
 "Whoo, who whooooooo."
 I listened And I looked so hard,
 My ears hurt
 and my eyes got Cloudy with the cold.

Pa raised his face to call out again.
 But before he could open his mouth,
 An echo came threading it's way through the trees.

"Whoo, Whoo, who, who,
 whooooooo."

Pa almost smiled.

Then he called back:

"Whoo, Whoo, who, who,
 who, whooooooo."

Just as if he

And the owl

Where talking about supper

Or about the woods

Or the moon

Or the cold.

I took my mitten

off the scarf

Off my mouth,

And I almost smiled, too.

The owls call came closer,

From high up on the trees

On the edge of the meadow.

Nothing in the meadow moved.

All of a sudden

An owl shadow,

Part of the big tree shadow

Lifted off

And flew right over us.

We watched silently,

With heat in our mouths,
 The Heat of all those words
 we had not spoken.
 The shadow hooted again.

Pa turned on his big flash light

And caught the owl

Just as it was landing on a branch.

For one minute,

Three minutes,

Maybe even a hundred minutes,

They stared at each other.

Then the owl

pumped it's great wings

And lifted off the branch

Like a shadow

Without sound.

It flew back into the forest.

"Time to go home."

Pa said to me.

I knew then I could talk.

I could even laugh out loud.

But I was a shadow as we walked home.

When you go owling

You don't need words

Or warm

Or anything but hope.

That's what Pa says.

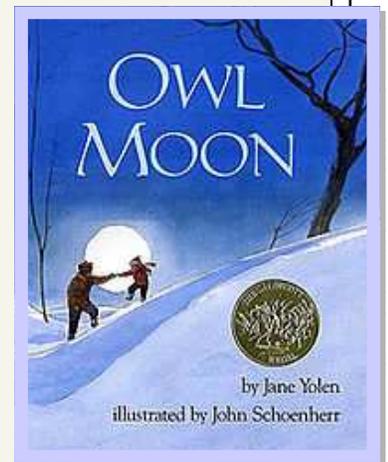

The kind of hope

That flies

On silent wings
 Under a shining
 Owl Moon.

HOLIDAY TRADITIONS

Do you have your own family traditions? Here are a few fun things you may want to try! You may find one to add to your Christmas Traditions List!

Elf on the Shelf– He's telling who's naughty or nice. You can buy your Elf and the book at Barnes & Noble or Target.

Santa's Wonderland– A LOT of Lights, petting zoo, Visit with Santa, snowflakes, hot chocolate and more! Located near college station.

Snow!!!!- Plenty of places in Houston make snow for kids to play in. Museum of Natural Science does this every year.

Tree farm– Pick and cut down your own fresh Christmas Tree!
www.oldtimechristmastree.com

Car ride & Christmas Lights– Do a little scouting to find a good neighborhood. Take the kids for a spin one night after dinner. Don't forget to turn on the Christmas music!

Slumber party under the tree- Gather round the tree as a family, read Christmas books and sleep under your tree one evening. Just like camping...on carpet, with blankets, and heat!

Ginger bread houses or Cookie frosting party-Invite family or friends over to decorate Christmas cookies. You can pre-make gingerbread houses or sugar cookies in different holiday shapes to make the party run smooth. You provide the icing and have everyone invited bring candies to share for decorating. Tip: When building Gingerbread houses, use hot glue to bind the structure. Pipe over with icing and no one will know! (It takes a lot of frustration out of a structure that no one eats anyway!)

Christmas PJ's– Purchase and wrap new Christmas jammies for your family. Open as early gifts to wear Christmas eve.

Baking Day– Have everyone bake teacher gifts together for some holiday fun.

The Nut Cracker Ballet– The Houston Ballet performs at the Wortham Theater Center every winter.

Disney on Ice-Kids will love seeing Mickey and friends at the Reliant Stadium.

Christmas Movie Night– Pop popcorn and curl up together to watch your favorites.

The legend of the Candy Cane: While the children munch on their Christmas treats, share with them how the candy cane was invented. Many years ago, there was a candy maker who wanted to make a Christmas candy that would act as a testimony to his Christian faith. The cane is actually a "J" for Jesus, and if it's flipped with the curve at the top, it's a shepherd's staff. The white represents the virgin birth and the sinlessness of Jesus, and the red stripes represent the wounds of Jesus: "By His stripes we are healed."

Christmas Pancakes– Make pancakes together to enjoy Christmas morning. Don't forget the fruit. Blueberries, bananas and strawberries are some favorites. Add chocolate chips for an extra special treat.

Give Back-Find a participating shelter or nursing home. Volunteer your time to give back on this special time of year. There is no greater example for your children. Be sure and prepare your children for the things they will see and experience. Take It as a blessing that they are not familiar with these sights and use the opportunity for them to learn just how blessed they are.
